Ticket", which means that it was a ticket that a passenger could pick up at the counter and write on their own, setting forth a credit account number. It would not be issued as a regular ticket. It is possible to identify this ticket as an "Executive Ticket" because of the 4th, 5th, and 6th digits of the serial number; namely, 168.

The "Executive Tickets" are not filed with the regular tickets and, therefore, to locate an individual "Executive Ticket" requires a special search. After making an exhaustive search of all possible locations, he stated that the particular ticket having the above serial number is not in possession of EAL, indicating it was possibly never used.

EAL Ticket No. 007221888490 was used on May 8, 1970, on Flight 515, from Washington, D. C., to St. Louis, Missouri. The second coupon of the ticket was utilized on May 9, 1970, on Flight 514, from St. Louis to Washington, D. C. The record does not show the identity of the passenger inasmuch as the ticket itself has been destroyed since it is more than one year old.

A review of testimony given by DANIEL ELLSBERG during trial of members of the "Minnesota Eight" in Federal Court. Minneapolis, Minnesota, 1/14/71 made, and points of interest set forth. AUSA THORWALD H. ANDERSON, Jr., Minneapolis, has no information regarding person or persons responsible for inviting ELLSBERG as a witness in this trial. ANDERSON had no knowledge regarding ELLSBERG's possible appearance until defense attorney opening statement on 1/12/71. ANDERSON stated the conference in the Judge's Chamber prior to ELLSBERG's appearance as a witness pertained to guidelines of testimony for all the defense witnesses, including ELLSBERG. ELLSBERG testified that acts of draft resistance have had an effect on American policy in Vietnam and that incidents such as are happening in Minnesota and acts of civil disobedience are very much a consideration in the setting of U.S. policy. AT MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA

On August 2, 1971, a review of testimony given by DANIEL ELLSBERG during the trial of members of the "Minnesot Eight in Federal Court, Minneapolis, Minnesota, on January 14, 1971, reveals the following points of interest:

On Page 94 of this testimony ELLSBERG stated his consultation with this administration was a confidential relationship, and he has kept that confidence the past two years.

On page 96 he stated his invitation to testify at this trial was made by attorney).

On Page 97 ELLSBERG stated he and others at Rand wrote a letter to the "New York Times," which was published in both "The Times" and "Washington Post," advocating that the United States make a public commitment to total withdrawal from Vietnam.

Minder of the Bigger of On Page 105 it is noted that ELLSBERG, following his departure from Rand, wrote a paper on U.S. foreign policy for the American Political Science Association.

On Page 108 ELLSBERG stated that after leaving. Rand he testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and made some appearances on university campuses, not named.

On Page 109 ELLSBERG noted that this was his first appearance in any trial after leaving Government service

On August 2, 1971, THORWALD H. ANDERSON, Jr., Assistant U.S. Attorney, Minneapolis, Minnesota, stated he had no information regarding ELLSBERG's appearance as a witness in the trial of two members of the "Minnesota Eight" in January, 1971, until the opening statement by defense attorney.

ANDERSON stated the trial memorandum, dated January 11, 1971, which was furnished the Court by on that date and which set forth witnesses for the defense, did not include ELLSBERG's name.

In this opening statement stated Dr. ELLSBERG had detailed facts concerning the present situation in Southeast Asia and the escalation of the war there. He said also that ELLSBERG, who served in the Defense Department in Vietnam, would testify to his special observations into the fact that he has, up to this year, had access to, and they remain available to him, details of the information concerning the character of the war in Vietnam.

Assistant U.S. Attorney ANDERSON stated the conference in Judge PHILLIP NEVILLE's Chambers prior to ELLSBERG's appearance as a witness was attended by him and the discussion pertained to all defense witnesses, including ELLSBERG, the Judge setting forth guidelines for testimony by these defense witnesses. ANDERSON did not recall any specific information regarding ELLSBERG which would reveal who invited him to testify or of any prior relationship between him and defense attorney or either of the defendants.

Set forth following is a xerox copy of the first page of the transcript of Court proceedings on January 12 1971, and the pages which include defense attorney opening statement which pertained to ELLSBERG:

ANDERSON AND SUTFIN REPORTING AGENCY

and what is happening. He, along with Ir. Ellsberg, will detail facts concerning the present situation in Southeast Asia and the escalation of the war in Southeast Asia.

Dr. Taylor will rely heavily on a report that was issued by a subcommittee of the judiciar, of the United States Senate which subcommittee of the judiciary was dated September 28 -- staff report was dated September 28, 1970.

The judiciary committee was headed by Senator James Eastland; the subcommittee entitled the subcommittee on refugee and civilian war casualties and problems in Indonesia was headed by Senator Edward Kennedy.

The report continues the subcommittee's effort to document what it calls the devastating impact of the Indochina war on the civilian population. It talks about a current widening warfare, and expanding U.S. involvement in the war. It documents the fact that millions of persons have been displaced within their country or are fleeing across international boundaries.

The report dated, as I say, the end of September of last year says that in Cambodia alone over the last four to five months the population of Phom Penh (phonetically) has doubled from 700,000 to well over a million persons. The report finds that bundreds of new refugees are being generated overy day.

It concludes and Dr. Taylor will conclude, Mr. Ellaberg will conclude that despite the claim that the war is winding down we find that by official records at least five thousand civilian war canualties are being admitted to government of Vietnam and U. S. military hospitals every month, an admission rate which has varied little in recent years and fails to reflect the large numbers of civilians killed outright or treated elsewhere or not at all, and several military regions and the details this will be testified to by the witnesses, the actual rate of hospital admissions of civilians has increased.

In the Darang area the report predicts a continued generation of war victims at the level of 10,000 persons per

In the Dayang area the report predicts a continued generation of war victims at the level of 10,000 persons per month. The figures bring the cumulative total for civilian war casualties since early '65 to Vietnas to over one million including more than 500,000 deaths.

It summarizes itself; well over 500,000 refugees remain on the books and thousands more are falling victim to the war each morth. At least three million refugees not on the books remain in camps or urban slums to which they moved in recent years. That's for Vietnam.

In Laos the number of officially recognized refugees is approaching 300,000.

In Cambodia in less than six months of the war, the war and related events have probably generated a million refugees.

I think it's important for me to tell you a little bit.

about Daniel Ellaberg who, as I say, will be one of the witnesses to testify to these events. Mr. Ellaberg has served as an advisor to the White House on foreign affairs for the last three or four administrations. He served in the Defense Department in Vietnam at a GS grade of 18 which is the highest civilian grade in the Defense Department.

His service in the Defense Department in Vietnam was equivalent to a Licutenant General. He sorved — following his period in Vietnam which was '64 to '65 he spent '66 to '67 with the State Department in Vietnam and his service in Vietnam in the State Department was what's called an FSR rank of 1. This is the highest rank in the State Department of the United States below an American Ambassador level. The only persons of higher rank in the State Department than Mr. Ellsberg when he was in Vietnam, was the Ambassador to Vietnam.

He will testify to his special observations and the fact that he has up to this year had access to and remains available to him the details of the information concerning the character of our war in Vietnam. In eddition to this Mr. Ellsberg will talk about and give you the benefit of some expert opinions as to what's happening.

It is his expert opinion, and he will so testify, that the wer in Vietnam is continuing primarily as a result of massive misinformation by the administration, Defence Department, State Department, of Congress, of the press and of the public. It is his observation that the war in Vietnam is not winding down and is not likely to wind down; that it is in fact simply changing its form and character and that we will see in this current year an increase in the destruction of the life of the people of Vietnam, in the society of Vietnam on a greater scale than we have seen in the past.

As a person intimate with the decision making process he has testified to this effect before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate. He has written widely, particularly on the decision making process that got us into Vietnem and the decision making process that keeps us there and he concludes and will so testify that the fundamental questions that keep us in Vietnem are the moral questions.

The reasons we are in Vietnam is because the decision — structure of decision making as such that people at every level of decision perceive their interest to be in the interest of keeping us in Vietnam and not ending the war. At every level of our government a person says the facts as they are, who says we have lost the war and we should be out, immediately removes himself from the decision making process, and in order to stay in the decision making process must continue the argument that has kept us in.

As a result at the highest and lowest administrative levels decision making is rempant with the self interest of the deciding person who knows what the truth is, who knows what the facts are and who yet makes a decision contrary to the truth and the fact because his own interest, his own position and his own status would be jeogardized.

Mr. Ellaborg will testify that in his opinion the most important and most fundamental things that can be done to change the war, to possibly get us out and as I say he's exceptionally pessimistic about it ever happening, are those things that force individuals to confront the moral issues and to confront where their own judgment should lie.

The only ressibility of ending the destruction of millions of persons, in Mr. Ellsberg's opinion, is to force people to make a moral choice — an individual and personal moral choice.

Two other persons will testify as to the felt and observed necessity of Nike Therreault in attempting to destroy the Selective Service System because of the necessities that he felt and observed. One is Narv Davidov, a local leader of the peace movement, a person described I guess the best as a radical pacifist, a person who has a long history of involvement, first in the civil rights movement then in the peace movement, who will describe the impossibility from a local point of view of expecting change to the fundamental kinds of problems that we have through electoral

On January 15, 1971, the "Minneapolis Tribune," a newspaper of general circulation which is published daily at Minneapolis, Minnesota, printed an article about ELLSBERG's testimony in Federal Court, Minneapolis, Minnesota, on January 14, 1971. This article stated ELLSBERG, in his testimony, said that acts of draft resistance have very explicitly had an effect on American policy in Vietnam. The article stated Judge PHILLIP NEVILLE allowed ELLSBERG to testify about some aspects of U.S. policy, but NEVILLE would not allow him to elaborate on what ELLSBERG said was a "pattern" characteristic of the past five administrations which has kept the war going.

and acts of civil disobedience are very much a consideration in setting U.S. policy. ELLSBERG said the chief argument against sending 2,006 more American soldiers to Vietnam in the spring of 1968 was that "Domestic unrest, particularly the draft resistance, would be overwhelming."

daily at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota, on January 15, 1971, published an article stating ELLSBERG, on January 14, 1971, while testifying in Minneapolis Federal Court, stated he has been involved in gathering information on the Southeast Asian war since 1964 and that at that time he supported U.S. policy in the war. He further said he challenged this position toward the war after meeting members of the non-violent anti-war community.

The "Minneapolis Tribune" on June 27, 1971, published an article stating "DANIEL ELLSBERG's most candid statement to date of his views on current American policy in Vietnam came at a private gathering in the Twin Cities five months ago.

"ELLSBERG said his conversations with former colleagues who were still in the NIXON administration convinced him that Mr. NIXON would escalate the war within a year unless public opinion could be mobilized against it.

at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Center for International Study, conducted a three-hour discussion at the home of St. Paul attorney with about 40 or 50 anti-war sympathizers present.

that he allegedly leaked to the New York Times, his comments provide clues to his possible motivation in making the reports public.

"He said Mr. NIXON planned to keep 100,000 or 200,000 American troops in Vietnam indefinitely, keeping American casualties down but raising the level of bombing.

convinced. . . is the NIXON strategy right now. I think that NIXON, like the four presidents before him, is determined not to be in office when Saigon falls to communism.

"'And he is also determined, if possible, to stay in office until 1976.

cannot withdraw all troops or anything like all troops from Vietnam. He can reduce troops, because we had far more troops than we needed to hold onto Vietnam. Just to hold onto Vietnam, he had several hundred thousand more troops than he needed. . . . And he's been dealing these out now, as needed.

"'But his plan is, first, to keep a hundred or two hundred thousand troops in Vietnam, indefinitely. He would like to get it down to 50,000. That's conceivable, but unlikely.

Vietnam, with the acceptance of the American public, ELLSBERG said, 'you have to keep casualties down. And to do this he (Mr. NIXON) plans not only to get them out of combat areas, but to threaten the North Vietnamese that if they should cause combat casualties at an excessive rate, or embarrass him politically by attacking hard, whether they succeeded or not, or by taking over to much of the country he will destroy North Vietnam.

"So ELLSBERG told the Twin Cities group, 'a deterrent threat of bombing is the second pillar of the strategy, of what he (Mr. NIXON) calls Vietnamization.'

that may well be right. And that premise is that the American public cares mostly about U.S. casualties, and by reducing those he has the major aspect of dissent, and the American public does not care about bombing and does not care about North Vietnamese casualties or South Vietnamese casualties, or Laotian, or Cambodian casualties or refugees.

"Mr. NIXON's 'bet on the North Vietnamese,' ELLSBERG said, 'is almost surely wrong. In fact, it's such a stupid mistake that one could hardly imagine how a U.S. president could make that mistake. But all you have to imagine is that he is not better than the four presidents who preceded him; that they all made that mistake.

"Experts on North Vietnamese policy, ELLSBERG said, believe it overwhelmingly likely that the North Vietnamese will challenge the President's strategy." Especially, ELLSBERG said, when they realize his intent to keep troops there. . and when it is clear to them that domestic dissent will not get NIXON out of there.

"I'The implication of all this," ELLSBERG said,
"is that the war is not over. And that expansion is likely," very likely. And it will take the form of continued, heavy Indochinese casualties, which have never (been) reduced actually. . Increased casualties, if anything, and increased bombing, very increased bombing. . .

"At that juncture in his Twin Cities talk, ELLSBERG raised his own question: 'Now, what to do about this?'

"'Most of the people who've been telling me this say the only thing that can be done, basically, given the attitude of the public, is to get rid of NIXON in '72. And that may be true. It certainly is the most likely way, without at all being a guarantee.'

premises that (imply) that North Vietnam is likely to be destroyed before November of '72. Or before January of '73. And if you're very concerned about that, which I am, then the election is not an answer.

without changing the belief that the war is coming to an end.

"'This, ELLSBERG told the antiwar group, 'is something to which I can hope to contribute."

On August 2, 1971, sources very familiar with Communist Party activities and membership in the MinneapolisSt. Paul, Minnesota, area, and who have furnished reliable information in the past, stated they have never heard any information connecting ELLSBERG with the Communist Party information connecting ELLSBERG with the Communist nor have they heard any information indicating the Communist Party may have in any way been responsible for bringing Party may have in any way been responsible for members of the "Minnesota Eight".

They further stated they have no information indicating any affiliation or membership of ELLSBERG with the Communist any affiliation or membership of ELLSBERG with the Communist Party, USA.

On August 2, 1971, sources well acquainted with the "Minnesota Eight" and with various phases of New Left and anti-war activities in the Twin Cities area and who have furnished reliable information in the past, stated they have no knowledge of persons responsible for ELLSBERG's appearance no knowledge of persons responsible for ELLSBERG's appearance as a witness in Minneapolis on January 14, 1971. made available to DANIEL ELISBERG the top secret document which is commonly referred to as the "SIMONS Papers."

As part of his job in the Security Office, he is allowed "to approve for access" individuals at the Rand Corporation who wish to study top secret documents. In this regard he must, when approving an individual, write in their name at the top of a form which is called "TS Record for Access", the TS standing for top secret. This signature means that they have been approved for access to the specific document but it does not mean that they have actually taken possession of the document. At the same time if he does this he must also sign the TS Record For Access at the bottom with the date and the reason why he had to physically handle that document. The TS Record For Access serves as the cover page for the document. It also necessary to physically handle the document although stated he has never read any of the top secret documents which he has handled.

Corporation, 1700 Main Street, Santa Monica, California, advised that she took official receipt of a black notebook on October 24, 1907. It had been forwarded to Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, California, by the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (OASD) International Security Affairs (ISA), Department of Defense (DOD), Washington, D.C.. It was accompanied by an SD form 12, DOD, which defined the contents of the notebook as "One notebook of xeroxed working papers" and the addressee was listed as Lieutenant Colonel SIMONS, Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, California. The date of the transfer was October 17, 1967 by official courier.

The notebook contained a total of 576 pages and was extremely unwieldy so on December 7, 1967, she split it into two separate notebooks, which have since been referred to as "The two black notebooks" of Colonel SIMONS. Each book was then assigned a separate top secret number, TS3151, containing approximately the first half of the original notebook, and TS 3151B, the remaining half of the original notebook.

On March 4, 1968, she wrote a letter to Headquarters, Defense Contract Administration Services Region, (DCASR) Los Angeles, requesting permission for SIMCNS to transmit a package of top secret material from Rand to OASD, ISA, Washington, D.C., on March 5, 1968. Permission was granted by M. ANTHONI, DCRL - CCL, Administrative Contracting Officer, on March 3, 1968. This package was item 43 from the second half of the notebook entitled "Memo for the Secretary, Notes on the South Vietnamese Situation and Alternatives, January 6, 1965" (TS), and consisted of four pages of the notebook plus a cover page prepared by This package was then returned to Rand by courier on May 20, 1968 hoes not know nor does the record show why SIMCNS took the package to Washington, D.C.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is louned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

On July 29, 1968, by her order of July 26, 1968, 71 pages of the notebook were destroyed by CHARLES F. SCHWERTFEGER, a Rand Security Guard, and the destruction was witnessed by DARRELL D. HESTBECK, Rand Security Guard. The "Certificate of Destruction of Classified Materials" defined the material as TS 3151 - A, item number 11, extracted from TS 3151, 71 pages, undated. From her recollection, these pages were duplicates of pages already in the notebook and thus were destroyed because they were no longer needed.

She could only explain the discrepancy between the information furnished by that 71 pages of the study had been shipped to OASD, ISA, and the above information that only 5 pages had been shipped, as due to the fact that he was recalling from memory and personal notes and she was reading from the record.

There is no record of SIMONS ever having transported 71 pages of any material from Rand to Washington, D.C..

The number TS 3151 - A, was assigned to these 71 pages that were destroyed to define them as having originated from TS 3151. Since their destruction, TS 3151 now contains the first 267 pages and TS 3151 - B contains the last 238 pages of the original 576 pages.

furnished a key punch printout which shows that DANIEL ELISBERG had, in his possession, TS 3151 and TS 3151 on June 22, 1970, and returned them to her custody on September 15, 1970;

She also furnished a "TS Record of Access" which shows that JACK MATHEWS, Security Officer, Rand Corporation, approved ELISBERG's access to the documents known as TS 3151 and TS 3151 - B. This approval is undated and appears directly after SIMON's approval for access, which was approved by RICHARD BEST, Chief Security Officer, Rand Corporation, on October 24, 1967, and is the first such approval on the record of those document pelieves that ELLSBERG's approval probably took place shortly after SIMCNS' approval but ELLSBERG presumably did not desire to see them until June 22, 1970. The "TS Record of Access" does not contain any other approval for ELLSBERG, specifically on June 22, 1970, so he had to have had the approval prior to that date and simply did not find the time or necessity to review the documents.

The "TS Record of Access" also contains the following names of individuals who were approved for access and who charged out the documents from the time of their arrival at Rand until they were shipped to the DOD in June 1971:

October 30, 1967

November 2, 1967

LLSBERG did not approve of security measures and she, incorrectly relaxing the rules in his case, never forced the issue with him. She realizes now what a mistake that was and has determined never to be so lenient again.

Concerning actual storage of the documents from their arrival until their return to DOD, from the record, they would have been in her office from October 24, 1967, to November 2, 1967, in Colonel SIMONS' Office from November 2, 1967, until December 1, 1967, in her office again from December 1, 1967, to June 22, 1970, in DANIEL ELISBERG's office from June 22, 1970, to September 15, 1970, in her office again from September 15, 1970, to the date took them, in her office from eturned them until that June 16, 1971, and from June 16, 1971, until their return the date that to DOD they would have been in the office where works. She added that she does not recall giving ELISBERG the documents at any time.

In explanation for the above controls, she said that was approved for access to the documents because she was assigned to compile a definitive list of the various sections of the SIMONS Papers by title, sub title, and so forth, but not of content, so that after they were returned to the DOD, Rand Corporation would still retain a listing of the contents.

members of the Security Office Stall and in order for them to grant access approval, and/or handle the documents for any reason, they themselves had to receive access approval.

The "TS Record of Access" form was actually attached to the document folder and any time it was necessary for anyone to physically handle these documents, his name had to be recorded on the form and the reason for that handling.

when his access approval was granted and that he returned to Rand on or about November 2, 1967, when signed out the documents. Subsequently, on December 1, 1967, when SIMONS himself signed the chargeout, this was probably when he was returning the documents to her custody and indicates to her that he had merely forgotten to come in and sign the chargeout sheet in November 1967.

appearing in the "TS Record of Access" as an individual approved for access to the SIMONS papers. However, she cannot recall nor do any records reflect that he ever actually had the documents in his possession.

advised she is responsible for the preparation and maintenance of the key punch records which are retained by Rand Corporation until the documents are either destroyed, declassified, or removed from Rand Corporation, Santa Monica possession.

When a top secret (TS) document is received by Rand Corporation, she prepares an original and seven copies of a key punch record card which contains the description of the document, the author, the date of receipt by Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, and the TS number assigned to that document. The original of that card is then put into a "Shelf" or master file, serially by TS number, from which she can make an inventory check of all TS documents in Rand Corporation's possession. The other seven copies are retained in a "Blank" file. When an individual charges out a document, she takes the first of the remaining seven copies of the key punch card prepared for that document and the individual fills in his name, his employee number and date of the chargeout. This card is then sent to the key punch section where all of the information on the card is It is then returned punched onto the card. and she retains this card until the document is returned to her. At that time she signs the card with the date of return and gives it to the individual as his receipt of having returned the document. When a second individual charges out the document, she takes the second card copy and the same procedure is followed. When the seven copies are exhausted she then prepares another group of seven, etc.

Whenever she conducts an inventory of an individual's TS documents or a termination inventory, she sends all of the key punch cards in her file to the key punch section. She attaches a note requesting that section to run the cards for the specific employee number. That section programs the key punch machine to kick out only those cards for the specific employee number. Whatever cards might appear for a particular individual are then run through a second machine which prints out the information, in English, which is contained in the keyed slots. This information is then sent who then has a record of the material in the possession of the individual and can subsequently inventory the material he possesses.

When ELISBERG terminated his employment on September 15, 1970, she had followed the above procedure with the key punch section and received a print out from that section showing that ELISBERG charged out TS 3151 and TS 3151-B on June 22, 1970. From this print out she could determine that these papers were the only TS documents in his possession at the time and she could then go to him with the print out, obtain the documents and return them to her possession. This is the only record available to show that he ever had the documents in his possession.

Concerning the cards, when they are given to an individual as a receipt, Rand Corporation has requested that the individuals retain the cards and not destroy them but there is no security rule at Rand Corporation which would force the individuals to retain the cards. She knows that most of the people destroy the cards as soon as possible and although ELISBERG was more obliging about the key punch cards than about other security procedures, she knows that he never kept a receipt once he had returned whatever document he might have and since he seldom if ever signed a "TS Record of Access for any document, there would have been no records whatsoever of his possession of the SIMONS papers if the termination print out had not been taken.

who are there as part of the professional staff, as opposed to support personnel, which would include secretaries, clerks, typists, etc., either do not believe in security procedures or do not care to take the time to follow security procedures as prescribed by Rand Corporation. Therefore, people like ELISBERG could not be counted on to help her or other members of the security staff in complying with security regulations. They appear to feel that "they cannot be bothered" and it is for this reason the records often fail to reflect the required information regarding the charging out of top secret material.

She said that Colonel SIMONS called her a short time ago, said that he had been interviewed by Special Agents of the FBI, and was not sure if he had given the Special Agents the correct dates concerning when the SIMONS papers were at the Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, California.

Rand Corporation, 1700 Main Street, Santa Monica, California, advised that the last contact she had with DANIEL ELLSBERG was in the fall of 1970, at approximately the time when he presented a paper, entitled "Escalation in a Quagmire" at a seminar. She believed it to be shortly after his termination of employment with Rand Corporation and it would thus have been in either September or October 1970. She has had no contact with DANIEL ELLSBERG since that time.

Corporation, 1700 Main Street, Santa Monica, California, telephonically advised that she had an interview with PAUL VINCENT, Departmental Attorney, United States Department of Justice, on August 5, 1971. They discussed numerous matters and specifically the control of top secret documents by her office. At the conclusion of their conversation, she furnished xerox copies of 12 Top Secret (TS), Record of Access forms to VINCENT. These TS Record of Access forms were for TS documents numbering TS-3151, TS-3151B, TS-3193, TS-3104, TS-3195, TS-3200, TS-3234, TS-3235, TS-3253A, TS-3253B, TS-3253C, and TS-3355.

These 12 TS documents are 12 supporting documents, which are mostly made up of working notes of DANIEL ELLSBERG and Lieutenant Colonel SIMONS. These documents were picked up by the Department of Defense in June 1971, and transported to the Department of Defense, Washington, D.C. They were part of a total of 77 pieces, which were picked up by the Department of Defense and returned to Department of Defense, Washington, D.C. The remaining 65 pieces were made up of the 47 volume "Mc Namara Study" and 18 volumes preliminary draft of that study.

Key Rusk Aids Spurned by Top Kennedy Council

BY STUART H. LOORY

WASHINGTON—Advised for the first time that the United States faced a can't-win situation in the Vietnam war. President John F. Kennedy's National Security Council in August, 1900, rejected the recommendation of a State Department expert on Vietnam to pull out homewably, the Pentagon's top-secret history of the war shows.

Instead, Secretary of State Dean Rusk put down audit talk from one of his subordinates as "speculative," saving:

"It would be far better for us to start on the firm basis of two things—that we will not pull out of Vietnam until the war is won, and that we will not run a coup."

Busk Overrnied Assistant

The expert overruled by Rusk was Paul M. Kattenburg, then head of the State Department's Vietnam Working Group, who had dealt with President Ngo Dinh Diem of South. Vietnam for 10 years. Then-Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. Mc-Namara, among other important officials, backed Rusk's view, the account says.

The report on the session, held at the State Department and chaired by Rusk in Mr. Kennedy's absence, is contained in a memorandran written by Marine Maj Gen. Victor C. Kutlak, then the Pentagon's top espect on counterinsurgency.

Krulak's memorandum is included in pratiously unpublished sections of the remore that The Times has obtained. The sections are from the same Poutreen stage that you the subject of procious stories in the New York Times, Weshington Port and Poulon Globe. It was prepared by a team of Poutreen McNamera in 1968. The analysis had access to documents only on file in the Defense Department. The analysis did not have access to the complete files at the White House or State Department.

The meeting Krulak describes was called as a "where-do-we-m-from-here" session after a group of Seigon generals falled to bring off a counagainst the increasingly unpopular regular ladded by Diem.

The meeting was a key session in the period from May to November, 1963, during which non-Communist opposition to the Diem reeventually boiled over into the overthrow of Diem and the assassination of him and his brother Ngo Dinh Whu on Nov. 2.

During the National Security Council session, Kattenburg advanced the suggestion that, in Krulak's words, "At this juncture it would be better for us to make the decision to get out honorably."

The complete text of Krulak's report on Kattenburg's presentation said:.

"Mr. Kattenburg stated that as recently as last Thursday it was the belief of Ambassador Glenry Caboth Lodge (Jr.) that, if we undertake to live with this repressive regime, with its bayonets at every street corner and its transparent negotiations with puppet bonzes (Buddhist monks). we are going to be thrown out of the country in six months.

Would Not Separate

"He stated that at this juncture it would be better for us to make the decision to get out honorably. He went on to say that, having been acquainted in him, saying that he will! not separate from his brother. It was Katten- so about winning the burg's view that Diem will; war." get little support from the military and, as time goes support and the country will go steadily downhill.

Gen. (Maxwell D.) Taylor (then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff) asked what kettenburg agreement on meant when he said that the problem." we would be forced out of Visanian within eix months. Kattenburg re-plied that in from six months to a year, as penple see we are losing the war, they will gradually go to the other side and we will be obliged to leave.

Nolling Disagrees

"Ambassador (Frederick) Nobing take had just lett his post in Saicon to be replaced by Lodger expressed ganeral disagreement with Mr. Kattenhurg. He said that the unfavorable activity which motivated Kationburg's remarks was confined to the city and, while city support of Diem is doubtless low pow, it is not greatly so. He said that it is improper to overlook the fact that we have done a tremendous job toward winning the Vietnam wer. working with the same imperiect, annoying government."

Rusk dismissed the view and McNamara agreed. Rusk then went on to say there was "good proof," in Krulak's term, that the war was being won. Lyndon Johnson agreed, saving that "from both a practical and a political viewpoint. it would be a disaster to pull out; that we should stop playing cops and robbers and get back to talkwas deeply disappointed ing straight to the GVN that we should once again

Sharply Critical

The Pentagon report on on, he will get less and less the meeting was sharply support and the country critical of the deliberations. It spoke of the officials' "rambling inability to focus the problem, indead to reach common agreement on the nature of

The report continues: - More importantly, however, the meeting is the first recorded occasion in which someone followed to it's logical conclusion the negative analysis of the situation -- i.c., that the war could not be won with the Diem regime, yet its removal would leave such political insighility as to foreclose specess in the war: for the first time it was resegnified that the U.S. should be considering methods of honorably disengaging uself from an irretrievable situation.

The witer auchnative, not fully appreciated until the year following, was a mitical areafor U.S. involve-: ment in and assumption of. responsibility for the war. At this point, however, the negative analysis of the impact of the political situation on war effort was not shared by McNamara, Taylor, Krulak nor seemingly by Rusk."

The documents accompanying the account of the precoup period show that Kattenburg's gloomy assessment of the situation dovetailed with the views expressed by South Victnamese Gen. Duong Van Minh, known as Big Minh, in secret contacts with Lodge.

In mid-September, 1963,. when the American highlevel military assessment of the war against the Viet Cong was rosy, Lodge cabled President Kennedy:

"I doubt that a public relations package will meet needs of situation which seems particularly grave to me, notably in light of Gen. Big Minh's opinion expressed very privately vesterday that the Vict Cong are stoulily gaming in strength; have more of the population on their side than has the GVN! that arrests are continuing and that the prisons are full: that more and more students are going over to the Viet Cong; that there is great graft and corruption in the Vietnamese administration of our aid: and that the 'lleart of the Army is not in the war.' All this by Vietnamese No. 1. general is now echord by Secretary of Defense Thuan, whol wants to leave the country."

Conflicts Pervade

Conflicts and huge gaps in the information reaching Washington pervade the report of the May-November, 1963, period. Not only had the Kennedy administration, the report. indicater, failed to see the deterioration in the war efforts; it did not recognize the growing signs in the spring of 1963 that the Diem regime was losing the support of the peoples

Nhu, the head of the secret police and important strategie hamlet program, was prowing more and more dominant over his brother, the president, the report motes.

Power Obsession

Nhu's wife, the report says, was developing a power obsession of her

The regime was growing more isolated from the peopie.

These facts were not comprehensed by U.S. officials at the time. Instead, the line was typically expressed in a briefing for McNamara at a strategy conference in Honolulu in May. The paper read:

"The overall situation in V4 e4-mam is improving. And the military sector of the counterinsurgency, we are winning. Evidences of Improveinent are charly visible, as the combined impact of the programs which involve a long lead time begin to have effect on the Viet Cong."

Meanwhile, relations be-Iween Washington and Saigon were beginning to deteriorate to the point. where those matters, rather than the war, began to preoccupy both capitals.

Birthday Celebration

The train of even's teading to the Diene regime's downfall and the following escalation of the American involvement in the Vietnam war began on May 8, 1963, at a colemation of Buddha's birthday in the ancient city of Hue. where the Buddhisis were defying a government han on the flying of religious flags.

The ban had been put into effect by the government after such flags were similarly flown in the a month earlier at a ceremony commemorating the 25th anniversary of Ngo Dish Pusc, the Roman Catholic primate-in Vistnam. Thuc was Diem's brother and a close adviser to the South Vietnamese president.

The Roman Catholic Diem family took the Buddhist flag-flying as an affront. A Catholic daputy province chief ordered his troops to fire to disperse the crowd. Nine were killed, including some children. Armored vehicles allegedly crushed some in the crowd.

The Diem government released a statement that the disorder was started by a Viet Cong grenade and that victims had been crushed in a stampede.

The next day, more than 10 B(N) Royalhi-1-in-1120 took part in a protest, becinning the long series of Ruddhist protests that included the now - tamons self-immoiations of Buddhist monks in South Vietnam's cities.

At first Dien refused to negotiate with the Buddhists and then, on June which he did not find to 16, he reached an agreement that he subsequently refused to carry out, in this reversal, he was provided by Nhu and his wife, who referred to a spicide at one point as a barbecue."

By July, an American national intelligence estimale-the combined best judgment of all American fact-finding agencies foresaw a summer of domonstrations and a possi- the midnight attack on the lde non-Communist, coup attempt against Diene if he made no effort to conciliate the Buddhists.

But the U.S. mission in Saigon, the study sais, failed to see the realities of the situation. It says:

"The explanation of how the U.S. mission became detached from the realities of the political situation in Saigon in August, jour, is among the most ironic and tracic of our chtire involvement in Vietnam."

Despite tough talks from Ambassador Elbridge Durbrow in the late 1950s and up to 1961, Diem had learned, the study says, "that the U.S. was committed to him as the only Vietnamese leader capable of rallying his country to defeat the Communists."

He began to ignore Durbrow with relative impunity," the study says. "He i became adopt at playing the role of offended laver."

Durbrow grew increasingly cut oil from the presidential palace, Mr. Kennedy appointed Nolling to replace him in 1981 and Nolling, try is a a this Joint approach, appeased

Both lactics failed," the study says, 'hecause of the American commitment. No amount of pressure or suation was likely to be effective in getting Diem to adopt ideas or policies his liking since we had communicated our unwillinguess to consider the ultimate sauction - withdraw of support for his icgime. We had chanared ourselves in a powerless, no-aiternatives policy,

"The denoucement of this policy, the ultimate failure of all our efforts to corre, ed of mistel year bus to be something other than lie mandarin be was, came in pagedas.

Unable to coax Diem into reforms, neither could the United States withdraw support from him because of the 'political instability and erosion of the war effort," the study Says.

At a White House moeting in early July. President Kennedy discussed the possibility of a coup with Underscretary of State George Ball: W. Arereil Harriman, undersecretary for political affairs: McGeorge Bandy, White Please rational security affairs adviser; Roger Illiaman, assistant sceretary of state for Far Hastern ailairs, and Michael Forrestal, a member of Bundy's stall.

The group agreed, according to a Hilsman memorandum, "that it would not be possible" to get rid of the Nhus. Hilsman said a coup would "most likely" result in a civil war in Vietnam-a civil war that would take place alongside the fight aminst the Viet Cong insurgency.

The White House session appears to be the first time that a coup was considered at the highest levei in Washington.

Me anwhile, optimistic reports continued to flow from the field. Gen. Krulak reported that the political strife had not hurt the war effort. But American correspondents in Saigon were reporting the situation differently and the Pentagon study says those newspaper accounts were, "in retrospect, nearer the reality."

It cites, as typical, a dispatch by David Halbergram to the New York Times on Aug. 15 "presenung a very negative appraisal of the war in the Talls." The study's refrespective view of Haloerstam's work is ironic, since Mr. Kennedy in Octoder. 1963, suggested to the New York Times' management that Halberstam be assigned elsewhere. The N.Y. Times refused to do so.

Nolting Replaced

During the summer, President Kennedy replaced Nolting with Loage, who had had long experience in Southeast Asia. While the new ambassador was preparing to go to his post, Nhu arranged the famous Aug. 21 raids on the pagodas in Saigon, Hue and all the other major cities. The buildings were ransacked. More than 1,400 monks were arrested; 30 were injured or wounded in Saigon's Na Loi pagoda alone.

The raids were carried out by Special Forces troops, trained by the United States government, and Nhu's combat police, although Nhu contrived in a number of waes.da.make it appenras if the army had conducted them.

· Kept in Dark

The American Embassy was kept in the dark, though the American correspondents learned of the impending action.

"It was several days hefore the U.S. Mission in Saigon and officials in Washington could piece together what had happened," the Pentagon sindy notes.

Not only were the raids a major challenge to the Buddhists by the Catholic Diem regime, they also were an affront to Lodge. He went immediately to Saigon to take up his new post, arriving the day after the raids.

That same day, the study notes, South Vietnamese generals made their first inquiries about U.S. reaction to a possible coup against Diem, at the same time expressing puzzlement ever why the Americans were blaming the Army for the raids.

Cables Washington

Lodge cabled Washington implicating Nhu as the organizer of the raids, noting the inquiries from the generals and asking for instructions on Aug. 24, which was a Saturday.

Hilsman, Harriman, Ball and Forrestal, moved quickly and decisively, giving approval for American support of a coup. As it happened, most of the top-level members of the government were out of town.

The Hilsman group's cable to Lodge said:

"It is now clear that whether military proposed Nhu tricked them into it, Nhu took advantage of its imposition to smash pagodas with police and :... special forces loyal to him, thus placing onus on military in eyes of world and Vietnamese people. Also clear that Nhu has maneuvered himself into LU.S. government cannot tolerate situation in which power lies in Nhu's hands. Diem must be given chance to rid himself of Nhu and his coteric and replace them with best military and political personalities available.

Replacement Suggested

"If in spite of all your efforts, Diem remains obourate and refuses, then we must face possibility that Diem bimself cannot be preserved.

... You may also tell appropriate military commanders we will give them direct support in any interim period of breakdown central government mechanism . . . "

"Concurrently with above, ambassador and country team should urgently examine all possible alternative leadership and make detailed plans as to how we might bring Diem's replacement if this should become necessary

Lodge quickly endorsed the strong position, proposing even not to bother with a final approach to Diem. He cabled Washing-

"Relieve that chances of Diem meeting our demands are virtually nil. At the same time by making them we give Nou chance to forestall or block action by military. Risk, we believe, is not worth taking, with Nhu in control combat forces Saigon, Therefore, we propose to go straight to generals with our demands, without informing Diem. Would tell martial law or whether! them we prepared have Diem without Nhu but it is, in effect, up to them whether to keep him."

two Cl.1 Meanwhile, agents-a Lt. Col. Conein and a Mr. Spera, neither of whom are further identified in the study-made contact with the generals.

By Monday, Hilsman reports, McNamara, Gen. Taylor and McCone began to have second thoughts about supporting a coup. By the next day, Gen. Paul Harkins, the American military commander in Saigon, registered his reservations, cabling Taylor:

"in my opinion as things stand now I don't believe there is sufficient reason for a crash approval on our part at this time."

The clash in views between Harkins and Lodge was to grow to the point that, by late October, Harkins was complaining to higher military authorities that Lodge was not shoving him important cable traffic. And Lodge would be complaining that in his absence. Harkins should not be left in charge of the American teain.

Independent Judgment

The debate within the National Security Council grew "testy," in the study's word, and concerned President Kennedy so much that he cabled Harkins and Lodge to each submit to him their "independent-judgment." Lodge replied:

"We are launched on a course from which there is no respectable turning back: the overthrow of the Diem government. There is no turning back in part because U.S. prestige is already publicly committed to this end in large measure and will become more so as the facts leak out.

"In a more fundamental sense, there is no manife back because there is no that the war can be won under a Diem administration, still less that Diem or any member of the family can govern the country in a way to gain the support of the people who count, i.e., the educated class in and out of government service and military-not to mention the American people."

Harkins replied that Diem should be given an ultimatum to remove Nhu and that after that, there would be time to back the generals. The study does not quote Harkins as it does Lodge.

At a National Security Council meeting, McNamara backed Harkins, the study says, "but the issue was not decided." Rusk cabled Lodge about presenting the ultimatum. Lodge opposed the idea, not wanting to make any approach to Diem.

Meanwhile, the abortive coup died quietly. An obscure colonel sought out a ClA officer on Aug. 30 and reported, according to the study, "that for the mo-ment the plans of his group had stopped because the risk of failure was too great."

Without Policy

Poignantly, the Pentagon analysts described the situation at that point:

"Having at long last decided to seek an alternative to the Diem regime by sanctioning a coup, only to have the attempt fail, the U.S. found itself at the end of August, 1963, without a policy and with most of its bridges burned."

Not part of the Pentagon study was a memoradum from Hilsman to Rusk, declassified or authority of President Johnson in 1968. In it, Illisman offered several secuarios for dealing with Diem and Nhai including what he called 'a Gotterdammerung in the Palace" with U.S. support of leaders of the anti-Diem coup and destruction of the palace is necessary to gain victory."

Never Presented

This memorandum was prepared for the NSC meeting in which Kattenburg presented his idea for honorable withdrawal, but Rusk never presented the Hilsman memo to the NSC for consideration.

In September, the Kennedy administration fell into a long period of soulsearching and fact-finding. The month began, however, with a statement by Mr. Kennedy on a television news show reaffirming the American commitment to help the Diem regime ii Diem would change personnel and develop policies bringing it into closer contact with the South Vietnamese peopie.

Opposes Withdrawal

The President went on to say, however, "I don't agree with those who say we should withdraw. That would be a great mistake."

In Saigon, Lodge met with Nhu and extracted from him a promise to resign. Madame Nhu would go abroad, he promised, and Archbishop Thuc, the other presidential brother, would leave the country. In addition, he promised gestures would be made to ease Buddhist tensions and a prime minister would be named in the government as a public relations gesture. Days passed with nothing happening.

Grows Impatient

Lodge grew impatient, the study says, and his cables to Washington reflected fears that Nhu was secretly dealing with Hanni and or the viet Cong through the French and Polish ambassadors in Saigon.

Madame Nhu did bave on her trip and Archbishop Thue did go to Rome but arrests of students by the regime continued, the study says, and "stories of torture and atrocities began to circulate."

Lodge continued to remain aloof from Diem despite an order from Washington to make contact with the South Victnamese president.

Backs Kattenburg

On Sept. 6, the National Security Council met in Washington. The study notes that Hilsman, in his book, reported that Robert F. Kennedy, the attorney Kattenburg line. According to Hilsman:

derstood it, we were there friends. to help the people resisttakeover could be successfully resisted with any government. If it could not, now was the time to get out of Vietnam entirely rather than waiting.

*The answer was that it could, but not with a Diem-Nhu government as: it was now constituted; we owed it to the people resisting ... Krulak Dispatched

The study says: "(Robert! Kennedy's trenchant analysis, however, did not guarantee a . . . reappraisal of U.S. policy, It did stimulate further cfforts to get more information on the situation."

President Kennedy sent Krulak and Joseph Mendenhall, a foreign service officer with long experience in Victnam, to South Vietnam to study the situation. The CIA sent its own top-ranking but unidentified man to make an independent assessment.

Krulak, the report says, made a whirlwind tour of all four corps areas, talking to Harkins, Lodge, 87 U.S. advisers and 22 Vietgeneral, picked up the namese officers. Mendenhall went to Saigon, Hue, Da Nang and other cities "As he (Kennedy) un-talking to all Vietnamese

Krulak said the war was being wen_impressively; Mendenhall said it Tould not be won with the present regime. Krulak said the South Vietnamese military viewed the Buddhist crisis with detachment; Mendenhall said a religious war threatened. Krulak said news of Nhu's ouster would solve problems; Mendenhall said a breakdown of civil government

Meanwhile, a similar answered, and he was not split in opinions developed sure that anyone had in the American Embassy the director of the aid mission argued that the war effort had not been affected by the Buddhist crisis and Diem's loss of popular support. Lodge, Menden-hall and John Mecklin, United States Information Agency director in Saigon, argued that it did.

By mid-September, the Kennedy administration decided not to fan the flames of the coup. After a National Security Council meeting, the White House cabled Ledge:

Also Optimistic

"We see no good opportunity for action to remove present government in immediate future; therefore, as your most recent message suggests, we must, for the present, apply such pressures as are available to secure whatmodest improvements on the scene as may be possible ... such a course, moreover, is consistent with more drastic eifort as and when means become available."

At the same National Security Council meeting, President Kennedy decided to escalate the level of fact-finders going to Vietnam. He ordered McNamara and Taylor to make a trip. Like Krulak, they returned with an optimistic view of progress against the Viet Cong. They noted that the "serious political tensions in Saigon" (the study's phrase) could "erode the favorable military trend.

In Saigon, McNamara and Lodge called on Diem. Although authorized by Mr. Kennedy, McNamara did not ask for Nhu's removal. Neither did he and Lodge deliver, as they were authorized if they felt wise, a tough letter from Mr. Kennedy to Diem.

McNamara and Taylor reported that continued American pressures on Diem would only harden the regime's attitudes, the study says. But, noting the American dilenuna, they reported that without such pressure "past patterns of behavior" would continue.

· Recommends Review

Militarily, the McNamara-Taylor report recommended that Gen. Harkins should review the war eifort with Diem with a view toward winning the war throughout the country except the Mekong Delta area by the end of 1964, and in the Deita by the end of 1963.

The two turther proposed withdrawing 1,000 American troops by the end of 1963. Mr. Kennedy approved that, authorized announcement of the withdrawal but ordered that implementation of the withdrawal not be an-

In the wake of the Mc-Namara-Taylor report, the Kennedy administration, the study noted, settled on the course of applying pressure on its ally in Saigon to make reforms.

Though McNamara and Taylor had found no evidence of a coup in the making, such a move was forming. And on Oct. 2, three days after they left, the generals once again sought out American officials to determine the U.S. attitude toward the prospective or erthrow of Diem.

Conoin, the Chi-man; began a long series of contacts with the generals. that were reported in deton. Washington instructtail by Lodge to Washinged Lodge to react this

As the planning progressed, with Lodge giving no discouragement, a Harkins approached one of the generals involved and tried to discourage the coup.

Asked by Lodge about this, Harkins replied, according to the Pentagon study, that he had misunderstood the instructions from Washington; that he was only trying to discour-Victnamere soldiers that would hinder the effort against the Viet Cong.

A South Vietnamese general idler complained to Conein that Harkin's discouragement had forced cancellation of plans to state the coup on Oct. 20, a Victnamese notional holiday.

The incident, the study says, fonce again highlighted the differing outjuolis of the amoustador and MACV (American Military Command) and underscored lock of close coordination between them."

The South Vietnamese generals distructed Harkins. Lodge, responsive to their fears, kept information to himself, the study

As planning progressed, Washington began to weiry more and more about its success and ordered Lodge to urgo a go-slow attitude on the generals. the study says. Lodge replied that the United States was committed.

Harkins, belatedly learning of all the planning, cabled his superiors:

"I would suggest we not hitch developed when try to change horses too quickly. That we continue to take persuasive actions that will make the horses change their course and methods of action. That we win the military effort as quickly as possible, then let them make any and all changes they want.

The armin of the disagreeing with Laurera such a great extent that Lodge was reporting the fact in his cables. Lodge was reporting he did not have "the power to delay or discourage a coup."

On Oct. 30, still nervous about the possible failure lof a coup, McGeorge Bundy cabled Lodge, saying:

Pentagon Study Tells Decision to Deploy Marines

BY STUART H. LOORY Times Stall Writer

WASHINGTON - The Johnson Administration, without extensive consideration, made a watershed decision without recognizing it, that ultimately involved the United States in a land war in Asia, according to the secret Pentagon study.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland and Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor each recognized the significance of what appeared to be a small stepthe deployment of 3.500 marines in March, 1965, to protect the growing air base at Da Nang.

The American press corps in Saigon agreed that the move was pivotal, but Washington saw it only as a step limited to the defense of the air base.

Westmoreland urzed the decision for deployment on Washington. Taylor had strong reservations about it and went along reluctantly.

Major Historical Event

*The landing of the marines at Da Nang was a watershed event in the history of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam," the study says. "It represented a major decision made withour meet fanfare-and without much planning.

whereas the decision to orgin bemiduz_Sorth Vietazar was the product of a year's discussion, debate and a lot of paper, and whereas the consideration of pacification policies reached Tainualic proportions over the years, this decision created less than a ripple.

"A mighty commandment of U.S. foreign policy-thou shalt not engage in an Asian land war-had been breached. Bestics Cincpac (the military commander-in-chief in the Pacific) and Gen. Westmoreland. who larmed the decloyment, Embassador Taylor who concurred with deep reservation, and Mohal Mc-Naughton lassistant delense secretary for international security aflairs), who apparently tried to add a monkey wrench, this is a decision without faces.

The seeming ease with which the marines were introduced and the mild reaction from Hanoi served to facilitate what was to come. It also weakened the position of those who were, a few scant months later, to oppose the landing of further U.S. ground combat forces."

When the 3.500 marines were sent into Da Nang there was little thought that they would presage a troop buildup that would eventually frow to more than 540,000 men. They were intended by President Lyndon B. Johnson and his advisers only to protect the air base at Da Nang against morter and rocket attacks by the Viet Cong.

At that time, Da Naug. in the northern part of South Vietnam, was a lease from which the first of the bombing raids against North Vietnam were being flourn.

The air war against the north was began at a time when the outlook for the sarvival of the United States - supported Spigen regime was gloomy from almost every point of view, Indeed, the hombing of the north was begun, according to the study, not maly to raise the price of North Vietnamese participation in the war but to boost the morale of the South Vietnamese, the. study shows.

Portions of the study which the Los Angeles Times has obtained and which were previously unpublished, show that Taylor, a general who had served as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff before taking over as ambassudor in Saigon, sought to warn the Johnson administration of the dangers of deploying the marines.

Reversing Policy

"I develop grave reservations as to wisdom and necessity of so doing," he cabled Washington, "Such action would be a step in reversing long standing policy of avoiding commitment of ground combat forces in SVN (South Victnam). Once this policy is breached, it will-be very difficult to hold line create conflicts with RVN Vi (Republic of Vietnam armed forces) over command relationships. These disadvantages can be accepted only if there is clear and unchallenged need which can be satisfied only by U.S. ground forces

"The use of marine, in mobile counter-VC (Viet Cong) operations has the attraction of giving them an otiensive mission and one of fer greater appeal then that of mere static defense. However, it would raise many serious problems which in past have appeared sufficiently formidable to lead to rejection of use of U.S. ground troops in a counterguerrilla roic.

Unsuitable Soldiers

"White-faced soldier armed, equipped and trained as he is (is) not suitable guerrilla fighter for Asian forests and jungles. French tried to adapt their forces to this mission and failed.

"I doubt that U.S. forces could do much better . . . There would be ever present question of how forrigh soldier would distinguish between a VC and friendly Victnamese farmer. When I view this array of difficulties, I am convinced that we should adhere to our past policy of keeping our ground forces out of direct counter-insurgency role."

Virtually everything Taylor prophesized in Victnam came true. But when the dire prediction was made, it fell on the deaf ears of policy-makers

Taylor's view, according to the study, represented a Increased number of change in his attitude ground forces in SVN avail from the previous August. inchesse points of friction At that-time, in the wake with local population and of the Gulf of Tonkin af-

At that time, the study notes in a footnote, "There is no agonizing over 'white

Only a Beginning

Westmoreland and his staff, according to the study, 'saw in the deployment of the marines the heginning of greater things to come . . . The rapidity with which the staff followed on the marine(s) ... with more proposals would tend to back up such a conclusion.

"It seems hardly a coincidence that Gen. (Harold El Johnson Ghen Army chief of well) immediately following his bringings_ky MACVI American Military Command. Vietnam), returned to Washington and recommended, among othor things, that a U.S. division be deployed to SVN, the study says.

However, insignificant in terms of grand strategy the move seemed in Washington, the American press corps in Saigon viewed it as of major significance.

As an example, the study quotes a dispatch, from Los Angeles Times Saigon. correspondent Ted Sell. which said, on March 10. 1935: "The landing of the two infantry battalions is in its own way a far more significant act than were earlier attacks of U.S. airplanes, even though those attacks were directed against a country-North Visingun -- ostensible not taking part in the direct war."

Called Undesirable

Son the studentoies, went on to quote a high offical as saying that the deployment was undesirable but that doesn't mean we won't do it."

The Pentagon analysts who wrote the study could not determine from the record whether those who actually planned the Marine move (as opposed to . these at the top of the Johnson administration who approved it) really meant it as a one-shot proposition to protect the base or as the wedge in the doorway through which more troops would follow.

"in light of subsequent events, it would be facile to conclude that the modest input of some 3,500 marines at this juncture presaged the massive buildup of U.S. fighting power in Vietnam which brought American military strength in country to over 180,000 by the end of 1965.

Except for COMUS-MACV (Westmoreland) who did see it as a first step and welcomed it and Ambassador Taylor who saw it as an unwelcome first step, official Washington regarded the deployment as a one-shot affair to meet a specific situation."

But before the year was half over, the door was open all the way and American combat troops were pouring into the Asian land war in ever-increasing numbers, a trend that was to continue for the next four years.

Western Air Lines General Offices, 6060 Avion Drive, Los Angeles, California, furnished the following information:

Approximately eight months ago Western initiated a new service called Jet Western. This service is designed to accomodate individuals desiring to use credit cards to pay for Western flight service. The individual takes a copy of a Universal Credit Card Charge Form, fills in the required information and presents it at the plane. His credit card number is then placed on the form. The individual retains the copy and the original is forwarded to the charge company. Western makes a microfilm copy of the charge when it is paid by the company so, therefore, a check would have to be made of each charge company return for the pertinent month in order to determine who might have taken a specific flight. Western does not retain a list of Jet Western passengers, per flight, as they do for other individuals who pay for the flight by means other than credit card since copies of those tickets are retained by the airlines company.

He said that since the do contain the copy of the Universal Credit Card Charge Form filled out by DANIEL ELLSBERG on May 17, 1971, this is definite proof that he actually took the flight.

He checked available records and advised that neither appear to have been passengers on that flight, but that if they had also used credit cards, it would be necessary to check all the returns from the various card companies for the month of May to locate their names.

After being interviewed on July 29, 1971 he decided to re-check the reservation lists for Western flight 723 for May 17, 1971 and he determined that there was no listing for either a

He also repeated the information that Western does not maintain any manifests for domestic flights and no flight coupons are available if credit cards are used to pay for the flight.

He said that he has been in touch with the Security Section of Western Air Lines and it would be best handled if the Federal Bureau of Investigation would make personal contact with that office to obtain records of Western Air Lines -billings to the various credit card companies. In this regard it would be necessary to review all the microfilm records for each company for the specific month to determine the names of each person who took that flight and used a credit card to pay for the flight.

advised that he is a driver for Bekins Van and Storage. Stated that he was leaving on a trip to New York momentarily and would be unable to have a personal interview with an Agent at this time. He indicated that he would return to Los Angeles from this trip on approximately August 5, 1971, at which time he would make arrangements for an interview.

inquired as to the nature of the inquiry and it was pointed out to that the FBI had information that he was the driver for Bekins Van and Storage relative to the moving of household goods from the residence of Daniel Ellsberg at 20752 Pacific Coast Highway, Malibu, California, and that a subsequent pickup was made at the Rand Corporation, Santa Monica.

advised that without the file copy of the waybill which he receives from Bekins, he would be unable to furnish accurate information. He did state, however, that he specifically recalled making a houshold pickup at the above residence and the reason that this particular pickup remains fresh in his memory is that in the bedroom of this residence there were mirrors on the walls and ceiling, which he thought was a little unusual.

He believes that the husband and wife were both present at the time of this pickup and he recalled that the husband accompanied him to the Rand Corporation, where he picked up a number of cartons.

Stated he did not know the contents of these cartons and recalls nothing specific relative to the household pickup.

stated, from memory, he believes that the driver who accompanied him on this trip from California to Cambridge, Massachusetts, was He stated he believes is now employed as a refler driver with Lyon Van Lines. He advised that was not actually a Bekins employee but was hired by to assist him.

It was his further recollection that all of the cartons he picked up at the Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, were delivered to Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge and that the same man who was at the Pacific Coast Highway address in Malibu was the man who met him at the above school. He also stated that this man, whose name he could not recall, also accompanied him to a residence and he believes he delivered the furniture to a third floor address.

South Canon Drive, Beverly Hills, California, telephonically contacted the Los Angeles Office of the FBI.

He advised that his company moves numerous employees of Rand Corporation who have been transferred. He said that on numerous occasions these persons would arrange to have cartons picked up at Rand Corporation and added to their total shipment of household goods being carried to other parts of the country. He stated that on these occasions the person who owns the property being shipped by Bekins will accompany the driver of the over-the-road truck to Rand Corporation where he would place the cartons aboard the truck. He stated that the driver of the over-the-road truck, due to the security regulations at Rand Corporation, would not be able to load the cartons unless the owner of the cartons was present. He added that a separate waybill for the cartons picked up at Rand Corporation was written; however, all of the charges for the move of DANIEL ELLSBERG were contained on the same waybill.

He advised that when a Bekins truck delivers goods across the country that the Bekins driver always checks in to a Bekins office located in any metropolitan area. He stated that the over-the-road driver who carried DANIEL ELLSBERG's merchandise to the Boston, Massachusetts, area would definitely stop in Norwood, Massachusetts, in order to pick up helpers to unload the truck at the final destination. He stated that drivers are not allowed to use helpers in an area that they unload except through the local Bekins office.

He stated that in his opinion no other person other than DANIEL ELLSBERG and the driver of the truck would know exactly how many cartons were picked up at Rand Corporation, Santa Monica, California, for delivery to Cambridge, Massachusetts was shown a photograph of which he recognized as one of two individuals who were at the Bekins warehouse on August 2, 1971, seeking to obtain a foot- locker which was being stored. stated that this individual is the same person he had previously described as a male caucasian, 30-35 years old, 185 pounds, approximately 5' 10", dark complexion, wearing a moustache. added that this person also has a beard.

1	stated that he was directed by to assist these individuals in locating a location of the second account. A second search located the footlocker. The man who made the telephone call evidently was aware of the description of the footlocker and pointed it out.
	In order to determine that this footlocker was the one being sought, he opened the footlocker, which was unlocked, for a few seconds and observed what appeared to him to be Instamatic film magazines which were in their cartons and others lying loose. These items were spread over the top of the footlocker contents. Stated he estimates the footlocker weighed approximately 100 pounds and in view of the light weight of the film magazines, he believes that the footlocker must have contained other material to account for the weight. He added that he has no idea what other material might have been in the footlocker as he only opened it for an instant.
	stated he assisted these two men in placing the footlocker into the back of a station wagon, which he believes was a late model American-made car but could furnish no descriptive data concerning it nor could he recall which of these individuals drove the car.

The "Harold Examiner", Los Angeles, California, issue of August 3, 1971, reflected that on August 2, 1971, a panel of three Federal Judges upheld the opinion of Judge WILLIAM GRAY, who held ANTHONY RUSSO in contempt of court in July 1971. RUSSO was ordered to surrender to the United States Marshal on August 4, 1971.

The "Los Angeles Times" issue of August 7, 1971, stated that Supreme Court Justice HUGO L. BLACK, acting in the absence of Justice WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS, permitted ANTHONY RUSSO to remain free until August 16, 1971. It stated that DOUGLAS was at his summer home and would review RUSSO's appeal "next week".

Teletype for Los Angeles attached. BACKGROUND: We furnished earlier instructions to Los Angeles to conduct specific investigation regarding leaders and members of BEM to pin down possibility that this anti-Vietnam war organization may have served as a vehicle for Ellsberg's dissemination of classified information and/or may have actually participated with him in acquiring such information while he was employed at Rand Corporation in Los Angeles. Initial reply from Los Angeles refers to fact that only indication so far in Ellsberg investigation of contact between BEM and Ellsberg has been through of the Los Angeles BEM chapter. Los Angeles has given no indication of compliance with earlier instructions calling for intensification of investigation and no results were furnished regarding identities of individuals with whom Ellsberg may have been in contact in BEM locally. BEM involvement in this matter has been emphasized by report of a relative of Mr., H. R. Haldeman at the White House to the effect that the relative, 🚮, had overheard a conversation at a 🛪 Los Angeles football game indicating BEM members were aware beforehand that a leak of classified information regarding Vietnam was to materialize this summer and, additionally, that they had "two men" in the White House who would leave their positions this summer and make embarrassing disclosures regarding the United States Government at that time, -14060 -Enclosure 65-74060 3 AUG 18 1971 100-44828 ALL INFORMATION C CONTINUED - OVER HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED ERH: bjp b (11) EXCEPT WHERE SHOWN 4 AHE 1 0 1971

Attached, from Boston Office, reveals newspaper article indicating "Pentagon papers" may have been offered to Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) Press office. Offer was refused due to volume of work involved in publication, with MIT officials declining to identify to newspaper person or persons making the offer.

Boston has requested authority to interview three individuals connected with MIT Press office in attempt to identify party offering documents for use and it is felt such an interview would give us substantive insight into method of dissemination of documents heretofore not known if the MIT officials are cooperative. Bureau files are negative on MIT Press Director Webber and on Associate Director of Public Relations Robert M. Byers. Bufiles are being checked on Professor Robert Bishop and if no information therein rules against interview, with your approval, Boston will be telephonically instructed to proceed with these interviews, insuring that interviewees understand Bureau has no interest in legitimate academic activities on the campus at MIT.

"ELLSBERG THEN ASKED HIMSELF: 'IF I COULD RISK DEATH FOR SOMETHING I BELIEVED IN (AS A MARINE, LATER IN VIETNAM), WHY CAN'T I RISK GOING TO JAIL FOR SOMETHING ELSE I BELIEVE IN?

THEN, HE SAID, HE TURNED OVER COPIES OF THE SECRET PENTAGON

UP BY TOVELL AND FIRST MADE A STATEMENT ON THE FOURTH COMING PUBLICATION AND THEN ANSWERED QUESTIONS FROM THOSE PRESENT. STAIR STATED THAT THE BEACON PRESS IS THE PUBLISHING ARM OF THE UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST ASSOCIATION AND IS A NONPROFIT ORGANIZATION WHICH PUBLISHES BOOKS FOR USE BY SCHOOLS, LIBRARIES AND STUDENTS BECAUSE OF ITS PUBLISHING ACTIVITIES, IT WOULD BE GEARED TO PUBLISHING AND DISTRIBUTING THIS TYPE OF PUBLICATION. HE STATED THAT SENATOR GRAVEL WAS MAKING AVAILABLE TO THE BEACON PRESS MATERIAL WHICH ACCOUNTED FOR NINETYFIVE PERCENT OF THE MEMORANDUM RECEIVED BY DEFENSE SECRETARY MCNAMARA IN RESPONSE TO THE STUDY HE REQUESTED REGARDING THE VIETNAM WAR. HE EMPHASIZED THAT THESE VOLUMES WOULD CONTAIN THE COMPLETE UNEDITED INABRIDGED MEMORANDUM AND HIS FIRM HAD TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTYFIVE DOCUMENTS TO BACK UP WHAT IS CONTAINED IN THE VOLUMES. STAIR STATED HIS COMPANY BELEIVES THAT THIS MATERIAL NEEDS TO BE MADE AVAILABLE NOW AND NOT AT SOME FUTURE DATE AND FOR THAT REASON END PAGE TWO

THEY ARE RUSHING INTO PRINT AND PLAN TO HAVE IT ON SALE BY LATE OCTOBER, NINETEEN SEVENTYONE . THE COMPANY PLANS TO PUBLISH TWENTY THOUSAND SETS (TOTALING EIGHTY THOUSAND BOOKS). A QUESTION WAS ASKED IF THIS STUDY WOULD REVEAL ANYTHING NOT PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED AND STAIR RE-EMPHASIZED THAT HE DID NOT WISH TO REFER TO ANYTHING PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED ANYWHERE SINCE THAT 图1000元 中国中国共和国国际发展的国际的现在分词,是自由 MATERIAL MAY HAVE BEEN SHORTENED OR ABRIDGED OR CHANGED IN SOME WAY . HE RE-EMPHASIZED THAT HIS FIRM WAS . TO HIS KNOWLEDGE . TO PUBLISH NINETYFIVE PERCENT OF THE OFFICIAL PENTAGON DOCUMENTS. HE ASKED IF HE HAD ANY OTHER OFFICIAL AFFIRMATION THAT THESE DOCUMENTS WERE "AUTHENTIC" AND HE REPLIED THAT HE HAD ONLY THE WORD OF SENATOR GRAVEL ON THAT MATTER. HE WAS ASKED IF HIS COMPANY ANTICIPATED ANY "REPRISAL" FROM THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, FOR PUBLISHING THIS MATERIAL AND HE REPLIED HIS COMPANY HAD NOT BEEN CONTACTED BY ANY REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AND HE DID NOT ANTICIPATE ANY "REPRISAL END PAGE THREE

SINCE THE INFORMATION WAS, TO HIS KNOWLEDGE, "PUBLIC INFORMATION" HE NOTED THAT SENATOR GRAVEL HAD PRESENTED THE INFORMATION CONTAINED IN THE DOCUMENTS TO HIS SUBCOMMITTEE OF THE SENATE TWENTYNINE LAST . STAIR WAS ASKED WHY SENATOR GRAVEL PICKED HIS FIRM TO PUBLISH THESE DOCUMENTS TO WHICH HE REPLIED THAT SENATOR GRAVEL IS KNOWN TO BE A UNITARIAN AND MAY HAVE PARTLY PICKED IT FOR THAT REASON BUT MORE POSSIBLY BECAUSE HIS FIRM WOULD BE ABLE TO DISTRIBUTE IT TO SCHOLARS, LIBRARIES AND SCHOOLS. STAIR STATED THAT GRAVEL'S PURPOSE IN RELEASING: THESE DOCUMENTS FOR PUBLICATION, IN GENERAL WAS THAT IF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE KNEW OF THESE DECISIONS ON A DAILY BASIS THEY WOULD NOT HAVE ALLOWED THE UNITED STATES TO GET INTO THE POSITION IT IS IN TODAY. BECAUSE OF THE SECRECY USED BY THE GO VERNMENT THE SYSTEM OF "CHECKS AND BALANCES" WAS NOT ALLOWED TO ASSUME ITS NORMAL ROLE . NOW THE AMERICAN PEOPLE CAN KNOW WHAT HAS BEEN GOING ON . END PAGE FOUR

DISPLAYED BY SENATOR GRAVEL AND WROTE HIM A LETTER PROPOSING THAT THAT FIRM PUBLISH THE MATERIAL. SENATOR GRAVEL ACCEPTED.
THE PROPOSAL AND NOW THE BOOKS WILL BE PUBLISHED. STAIR STATED THAT GRAVEL SAID THIS MATERIAL WAS OFFERED TO HIM, HE DID NOT SEEK IT OUT. A QUESTION WAS RAISED AS TO A PARALLEL BETWEEN DR. DANIEL ELLSBERG'S RELEASE OF THE FORTYSEVEN VOLUME PENTAGON DOCUMENTS TO THE NEW YORK TIMES COMPARED TO THE RELEASE OF THIS MATERIAL BY SENATOR GRAVEL TO THE BEACON PRESS.

STAIR STATED HE DID NOT WANT TO DRAW ANY PARALLEL
BETWEEN THE TWO SITUATIONS. DURING THE PRESS CONFERENCE STAIR
FENDED OFF ANY QUESTIONS RELATING TO THE PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED PENTAGON PAPERS AND THE DOCUMENTS HIS FIRM IS SCHEDULED TO PUBLISH. HE RE-EMPHASIZED THAT HIS COMPANY'S WORK WOULD BE THE ACTUAL NARRATIVE AND NOT A "BOILED DOWN VERSION OF THE MCNAMARA STUDY." WHEN QUESTIONED REGARDING THE FACT THAT ONLY NINETYFIVE END PAGE FIVE

PERCENT WOULD BE PUBLISHED STAIR STATED THE OTHER FIVE PERCENT OF THE STUDY WAS NOT MADE AVAILABLE TO HIS COMPANY AND ALTHOUGH QUESTIONED WOULD NOT SUGGEST ANY REASON', SUCH AS NATIONAL SECURITY, WHY THAT FIVE PERCENT WAS MISSING.

IN CONCLUSION STAIR STATED THAT HIS FIRM WOULD NOT COPYWRIGHT
THIS MATERIAL AND WAS PRINTING IT, IN THEIR OPINION, AS A PUBLIC ERVICE. HE NOTED THAT THERE WOULD BE SOME COST INVOLVED IN THIS PUBLICATION, IN FACT, INORDER TO PUBLISH IT QUICKLY AS REQUESTED BY SENATOR GRAVEL IT WOULD COST APPROXIMATELY FOUR TIMES THE NORMAL COST OF PUBLICATION. STAIR WAS ALSO ASKED THE QUESTION WAS THERE ANY CONNECTION BETWEEN THESE DOCUMENTS WHICH HIS FIRM PLANS TO PUBLISH AND THOSE DOCUMENTS WHICH HAVE BEEN RETURNED TO HAVE BEEN RECENTLY OFFERED FOR PUBLICATION

Wannall 1 - Mr. J. R. Wagoner (NATIONALITIES INTELLIGENCE) In reviewing the attached memorandum from Assistant Attorney General Mardian to the Attorney General, the Director asked if Mardian's outfit is conducting its own investigation in this matter as indicated by the contents of the attachment which provided a rundown on the appearance by Daniel Ellsberg at a "teach-in" in St. Louis, Missouri, in April, 1971. The information set forth in the memorandum is the result of FBI investigation which has been furnished in summary form to the Internal Security Division of the Department. The author of the memorandum incorrectly characterized the investigation as "our" rather than describing it more accurately as an FBI investigation. The attachment is an internal communication from one division of the Department of Justice to the Attorney General and was entered in our recording process before this was noted. The original now bears administrative recording marks which have defaced it to the point that it should not be returned to the Department; however, the two mechanically reproduced copies that were forwarded with the memorandum should be returned to the Department for completion of its files. A letter to the Attorney General enclosing those copies is attached. ACTION: For information. If you approve, attached letter to the Attorney General will be sent returning the mechanically reproduced copies of the attached memorandum. REC- 66 65- 194/C Enclosures - 3 65-74060

Boston is continuing its efforts to discreetly obtain the thesis and will keep the Eureau notified of its progress.

With respect to the article entitled "The Theory and Practice of Blackmail" and the Lowell Institute lectures, it is noted that the Lowell Institute is the night school at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Pertinent sources at the Institute have been unavailable to date due to vacation but are expected to return on or about 8/9/71, following which contact will be had with them with respect to the above article.

It is noted that many Doctoral candidates send copy of their thesis to Washington, D. C., where, for a fee, it will be filed in the Library of Congress. Accordingly, WFO is requested to check at the Library of Congress in an effort to obtain a copy of ELLSBERG's thesis, it being noted that he was awarded a Doctor of Philosophy degree by Harvard University in 1962 and in connection with this degree, prepared a thesis entitled "Risk, Ambiguity and Decision."
